In 1882 The City of Binghamton, situated at the junction of the Susquehanna and Chenango rivers, in Broome County, New York, stands - among the first in the United States in beauty of location and surroundings, healthfulness of climate, rapid increase in population, development of business interest and enterprises. Situated in the centre of a rich farming country, and just on the borders of the iron, coal and oil regions of Pennsylvania, it is not surprising that, within thirty years, it has grown from a sleepy, little inland village, to a large railroad centre and busy commercial mart and manufacturing city. Men of enterprise and wealth have not been slow to recognize its future prospects, and their energy and capital have left, and are still rearing enduring monuments to honor the memory of their efforts. Settled at first by people of culture, their influence and example determined for the coming generations, the nature of its institutions, in its churches, schools,...
