Not illustrated. 1815 Excerpt: . build them with small sticks, and cement them with mud or clay; others unite them with a sort of gum which they collect from various kinds of trees, and line them with the hair of animals or with some other soft substance. Some suspend their nests from the boughs of trees, and form them of moss or dried bark. The size and colour of their eggs, are as various as their nests: but they all appear to be tender of their young and careful to provide food for them, and t- take care of them till they are old enough to take care of themselves. /How hard-hearted, how cruel it is to rob birds ol their eggs or to take away their young ones: and yet some little boys destroy their nests and take the young birds, and neglect to feed them, and they soon die with eold and hunger. Tender-hearted little boys never destroy their nests oor take away, nor hurt the little birds; because they know that they were made by the same great and good being that made them. They admire and look at them With pleasure, but never molest them. The honest find honourable little Hoy. The honest little boy is fair and upright in all his words and actions. He is not so mean as to impose upon any one by a falsehood. He never speaks ill, or slanders any one. He is above practising a cheat in word or...
